Thank you so much for picking up this book! My name is Ben Benson, and this is my first full book with Gakka Publishing. It's randomly full of guys with buzz cuts and facial hair, but I hope you enjoyed it anyway. I'd be happy if you did at least a little. This book features some of my older manga from about two or three years back, I'm kind of embarrassed to even look at them, but they're all works that mean a lot to me. As I got to draw what I wanted the way I wanted, I feel like this is a very good book, in that sense. But that's enough about me. Below I've included some comments on the one-shots in this book. There are a lot of them, so they might be a little confusing...

POSTSCRIPT

Handful Punch!

For this one I drew precisely what I like: a jockey with a boxer. It might be long to read, but the idea's supposed to have cauliflower ears. Just like a real boxer! I didn't make the guy wear a jockeycap because I didn't think that'd work. In a past manga I've since changed my mind.

Wife and Girl!

I wanted to draw both boys and a portrait of a girl couple, so I combined them here. I don't think I'm quite there yet... In this way I've obsessed with the couple's names, Utagawara.

Shortest Buns!

This one's just six pages long and, like, the shortest commercially published manga I've ever drawn. It's a small novel full of guys and the reader gets the idea again. If I ever get the inspiration, I want to draw school uniforms again.

Old-School!

We always read stories about brothers. In wanting to draw a comic that looks like it's escaped from a shounen manga, I ended up making this a portrait in my excitement. I'm so disappointed (in myself). If you look underneath the dust jacket, you'll find some extra drawings of this story's characters.

Unlabeled Oba no Gama Oba no!
I was really pumped up about drawing a cooler older guy, so why did I end up with a bludge manga...? I'm happy that even though this one was short, it still garnered a big response.

Black Girls Class!

I drew this when I was going through a period of wanting to draw something I wouldn't usually draw, so I ended up with a threesome...I also usually make sure my stories have happy endings, but this time the protagonist gets dumped. Looks like I really wanted to try something new.

Stunner About the Professor!

This one's the oldest of my works in this book, I'm sorry if the art's too ugly to handle...I always tend to draw older guys with white facial hair and glasses, but I just can't get enough of them so pretty sure I never will.

Summer Games Drawed!

Even though let's hold the old man's got some serious chest hair. This is actually a retelling of a story I came up with regarding a pair of cousins (male and female), but rather than flipping hair in that one, I wonder when I got old enough to truly appreciate a big forehead.

Evil-up Games in Fifth Grade of the night!
Gosh this is a reprint of a design! I wanted to try my hand at drawing a pretty common fantasy trope to my heart's content. Drawing big fur was a pain, but once I got into the swing of things, it was pretty fun. To be honest, I love supernatural beings, so not sure if two regular people together are going to do it for me anymore! (LOL)

I'm not sure if any of the comments above are very illuminating. Thank you so much if you managed to read everything up to here. I'd love to hear from you!

Special thanks to

My editor, Shizuma, G-ryogachuan, everybody else, and my readers.

As Rukun (Bye)
